NEW YORK COTTON MARKET.

New York, March 21.—Bear speculation governed the cotton market to day almost from the start and prices eased off to about the low point reached Monday. The opening was steady, with prices unchanged to a point lower. A rapid decline followed on late cables telling of steady losses in the Livernool market under liquidation, and Southern crop accounts loomed up bearishly. The opening figures proved to be top of the day, as, while there were several feeble railies, the feeling continued bearish and selling orders exceeded demand. Receipts were considerably in excess of early estimates. Southern markets showed no further gains of importance and the investment public manifested no further gains of importance and the investment public manifested and further desire to re-enter the market at the present standing of values. Afternoon thetutations were of a see-saw nature, though averaging against the market. Trading was not active and consisted principally of professional interchanges. The close was steady, with mer months 9 to 12 points lower.
